

ENCOURAGE YOUR STUDENTS TO BE LOYOLA SUMMER SCHOLARS!

Do you know any students who want to see what college is really like? As a Summer Scholar at Loyola, sophomores or juniors in high school can hone their academic skills in a college-level environment. Small classes ensure that students have the attention of respected professors and are able to interact with classmates in stimulating discussions. Summer Scholars will also expand their cultural awareness as they meet new friends from around the world and experience the world-class city of Chicago.

ACADEMICS

Summer Scholars earn college credit in a three- or six-week program. Some of the classes offered in the past include: creative writing, journalism, environmental biology, law and civil rights, ethics, and entrepreneurship. As part of the six-week option, students have a chance to take courses alongside college students and earn up to six hours of college credit.

FACULTY

Loyola faculty teach all Summer Scholars courses. As a result, students will see what a college classroom is really like as they engage in interesting group discussions and interact with their professors.

RESIDENCE HALLS

Students have the option of living in a residence hall specifically reserved for Summer Scholars. Living on campus will help your students develop confidence and team-building skills as they look forward to college.

EXPERIENCE CHICAGO

Chicago is a world-class city, and students will get to experience it. Last year, Summer Scholars visited places/events such as: Taste of Chicago, Independence Day Fireworks, free city concerts and street festivals, Lake Michigan's beaches, Millennium Park, a Major League Baseball game, The Second City, The Steppenwolf Theatre, and several museums.
